COAST TO COAST AIR MAIL SERVICE

30-Hour Transcontinental Service Between N. Y. and San Francisco Inaugurated

Planes Expected to Reach Their Respective Terminals Tomorrow P. M.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 21.—Somewhere between Omaha and Grand Island, Neb., the two aircraft which started today, one from San Francisco, the other from New York, inaugurating the 30-hour transcontinental air mail service, will pass each other. One started from San Francisco at 5.59 a. m. and the one from the eastern coast was due to hop off at 11 a. m. By mid-afternoon, Wednesday, if the schedule goes through as arranged, they should reach their respective terminals, thus reducing the United States in terms of transportation to one-fourth its size.

The transcontinental route, New York-San Francisco, measures 2689 miles. Three mountain ranges, Alleghenies, Rockies and Sierras, are crossed. At the five regular fields, Chicago, Iowa City, Omaha, North Platte and Cheyenne, the huge 50,000,000 candle power arc beams of Elmer A. Sperry are installed and will reflect the clouds of the horizon every 20 seconds. At these fields also are huge lamps illuminating the landing runways, illuminated cones to reveal the direction of the wind, and incandescent lamps outlining the boundaries of the field, buildings, etc.

At Rock Falls, Des Moines, Grand Island and Sidney and 30 points of less size and importance, are installed beacons whose rays keep the pilots lighted continuously from one port to another. Further to guide the pilots on their way, at distances of every three miles are flashing acetylene gas beacons, set on six foot pillars, thus literally laying out a trail of light for practically 300 miles which will be covered by the flyers between sunset and sunrise.

MAY VOTE MONEY FOR STREET WORK

It is felt at city hall that the council will be unanimous in voting a supplementary budget for street department work at its regular meeting to be held this evening. The budget will call for $74,600, an amount, which was recently voted by the council in the form of loans.

It was learned today that the mayor in a letter to the council has approved the adoption of the budget, so that it is not expected the matter will be argued at any length this evening. Prognosticators at city hall predict that the supplementary budget with unpaid bills of last year, amounting to $88,000, which will be included in the tax levy, will result in adding at least one dollar per thousand to the rate. What the 1923 tax rate will be no one dares to predict and the assessors are non-committal. It was stated this morning, however, that the rate will be announced tomorrow in time for publication in the afternoon papers.

Chairman Ballou of the council stated today that considerable routine business will be transacted at this evening's meeting, but most of it will be in the form of hearings for pole locations, wire attachments, garage and gasoline licenses and street and sidewalk improvements.

BRITISH GET FRANCE'S REPLY

Answer to Recent Vote of Marquis Curzon Handed to British Embassy Today

Feeling That Communication Will Prevent Rupture of the Entente

PARIS, Aug. 21.—(By the Associated Press) The French government's reply to the recent vote of Marquis Curzon, the British foreign secretary, on the reparations situation, was handed to the British embassy at 9 o'clock this morning.

The feeling in French official circles is that this note, issued by Premier Poincaré, will prevent a rupture of the entente. Confidence is expressed that the British cabinet will see in it a basis for continued discussion of the reparations problem generally.

There is no concealment of the fact that the reply is largely controversial, that Premier Poincaré is unsatisfied on the outstanding features of the situation, and that it is not expected Prime Minister Baldwin will and the reply conclusive.

It is considered almost certain, however, that he will regard it as encouraging and will withhold any plan for separate action toward Germany until the points in dispute are further elucidated.

CABLE FOR FIRE ALARM SYSTEM REPAIRS

The Western Electric Co. may have been the lowest bidder for cable for repairs and replacements in the local fire alarm system, but its bid was not opened because it was a little late in reaching the office of the purchasing agent at city hall this morning.

A few days ago the purchasing agent called for bids for the cable and the date and time set for the opening of the bids was this morning at 11 o'clock. Before the time set for the opening of the bids four or five envelopes were received and at 10 o'clock they were opened. At 11:15 a. m. the envelope brought in a letter from the Western Electric Co. for the cable was not opened and was mailed back to the company.

OPERATORS AND MINERS AT ODDS

Second Day of Renewed Wage Negotiations Finds Conferees Far Apart

Widely Separated in Their Ideas of Proper Mine Pay Rates

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 21.—Today, the second of renewed wage contract negotiations in the anthracite industry, found mine operators and miners' union officials widely separated in their ideas of proper mine pay rates. The subject opened at the first meeting yesterday, was scheduled to be taken again into joint meeting for discussion today while the ten other demands of the union upon the mine owners were temporarily set aside.

John J. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, emphasized the $2 increase demanded for day men as especially justified in view of recent increases for steel workers, building trades and textile hands. S. D. Warner, I. of the operators' policy committee, responded that the anthracite scales were fixed in 1920, had not been increased since, and had been declared generally adequate by the United States coal commission.

The miners' union spokesman further said that bituminous miners got more money while operators countered with the proposition that the anthracite miners gave regular and practically continuous employment.

Pending demands of the union for a 20 per cent increase in piece rates per ton for raising coal which affects miners more than the day men were up for further examination today.

The operators group, figuring that the increased wage bill would add $2 per ton to the price of prepared sizes of coal to the consumer, took the general position that no additional charges could be borne by the industry or the public.

Pres. Coolidge Prefers to Meet

Members of Official Family Individually

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—President Coolidge again today dispensed with the regular cabinet meeting, preferring to meet with the members of his official family individually so as to obtain direct information as to the problems of the various departments.

It was indicated that the president was giving considerable attention to the merchant marine question. Several reports have been laid before him by Chairman Farley of the shipping board, and the executive today requested additional information relative to the board's program.

MRS. MALLORY DEFEATS MISS ELEANOR GOSS

CASINO COURTS, Newport, R. I., August 21.—Mrs. Mollie Bjurstedt Mallory defeated Miss Eleanor Goss 11-9, 6-3 in the first match of the women's tennis matches today, which brought ranking American women together. Mrs. R. C. Clayton won from Mrs. B. C. Howell, 6-1, 6-2 in the second match, the two members of the English team meeting as a result of their victories yesterday.

It was the luck of the draw that caused the international aspect of the singles to fade. Tournament officials said that if the draw were changed to bring Americans against Britons, the tournament would not count in the ranking at the end of the season. American, by winning the doubles match today, may overcome England's lead of 3-2 in matches.

WRIGLEY IS TREASURER

To Handle Funds to Be Raised

By Newsboys for Statuette of Laddie Boy

BOSTON, Aug. 21.—William Wrigley, Jr., the Chicago manufacturer, today accepted the trusteeship of the fund to be raised by the contribution of one cent each, the pennies to be melted down and made into a statuette of Laddie Boy, the White House dog, which is to be presented to Mrs. Harding. "I am anxious to help in newsboys' penny collection," Mr. Wrigley telegraphed the Roosevelt Newsboys' association of this city, sponsor of the movement, and am willing to act as treasurer provided that means that I can take the shipment, copy pennies and take care of them until they are needed.

Mr. Wrigley once was a newsboy and was a close friend of the President Harding.

An effort will be made to give every newsboy an opportunity to contribute through an appeal to be sent to the publishers and circulation managers. Laddie Boy is now owned by Harry Barker, a secret service man, recently transferred from Washington to New England, and the dog will arrive soon at Barker's home in Newton.

"BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE" FOR AUTO TOURISTS

A "book of knowledge" that is absolutely necessary for automobilists who desire to tour the New England states without breaking any of the state laws, has been published by the Massachusetts Safety Council, board of public works, and is now being distributed throughout the state.

In this booklet is outlined briefly the main laws of the various states; the equipment necessary to comply with the law; regulations concerning the head, tail and parking lights; speed limits; and many municipal ordinances. Lack of knowledge of which often causes a tourist to be held up by the police and brought into court.

In addition to being of great use to automobilists who wish to visit the other states of New England, this booklet will be of great value to automobilists for there are many points to our own state laws that are hard to understand when presented in local form, but are easily understood from this booklet.

The chamber of commerce has received 50 copies of this booklet and will be glad to furnish copies to automobilists who desire them.

OPERA HOUSE WILL OPEN NEXT MONDAY

The Lowell Opera House, the amusement center of Lowell in every sense of the word, will reopen after having closed all summer, Monday evening, August 27th. The new production, "The Bar," the world known mystery play, the holder of long run records in every city that it has ever played, and the most gripping and interesting offering ever written by Mary Robert Elphinstone and Avery Tappan.

"The Bar" will play Lowell on its tour to the New England states and the production will be the same as the original play as seen in New York and Boston last year. Many of the same cast will play roles, and it is assured local theatregoers in advance that this is a number 1 company of this international school.

The opera house is in many ways a charming theatre for during the past month considerable work has been done to the interior of the theatre. The seats, the stage, the lobby, the entrance, the walls of the auditorium have been repainted in a new and more attractive scheme. The new floor covering has been laid, and the lobby has been repainted. A general overhauling has taken place among the seats which have been repainted for their comfort. Such as is not to be found as a general rule in the newer theatres of today.

city and they have secured the aid of the Lowell police department in making a thorough investigation. This investigation is not in the line of chasing bootleggers, but arrests are momentarily expected on other charges.

Two members of the military police, however, who were sent here on the trail of bootleggers, succeeded in making two arrests, and the defendants, Armando Pasquette and Candid Fournier, young men aged about 18 years, were before Judge Fleckman in district court today, charged with illegally selling liquor.

Frechette pleaded guilty to the complaint and Fournier not guilty. Frechette said that Fournier had nothing to do with the sale and Fournier testified that he simply loaned Frechette a half-dollar to make change.

Judge Fleckman found both guilty, however, and as it was Fournier's second appearance before the court on a similar complaint, he was ordered committed to the house of correction for a term of two months. A fine of $100 was imposed on Frechette.

SAYS U. S. NEEDS

STRONGER NAVY

WILMINGTON, Aug. 21.—The further the United States goes into foreign affairs, the more it needs a strong navy, said Capt. Frank H. Schofield, U. S. N., at a round-table conference of the Institute of Politics yesterday.

He emphasized also the necessity of holding sufficient naval supplies. Col. W. L. Wooten, U. S. A., discussed the relative fitness of Japan and the United States to go to war. "No country," he said, "is in all respects self-sustaining. The United States is far more nearly so than any other nation. Among the leading world powers Japan is the most deficient in raw materials. She has enough coal and copper but is lacking in practically everything else. She absolutely requires access to the raw materials of China, especially to China's iron ore, and she has great need of northern Sakhalin as a source of oil supply."

STUBBORN GRASS FIRE

Members of the Draught fire department were kept all day yesterday combating a grass fire in the rear of the Cutter farm, off Main street. Tale of Fight at Sea Recalls
Stories of the Dark

Desperate Rifle and Revolver
Battle—Pirates Escape
With Large Sum of Money

ROCKPORT, Aug. 20. A story of piracy on the high seas, in which a three-masted British rum-running schooner was captured by pirates early last night, 17 miles off Rockport, after a desperate rifle and revolver battle, was revealed about 10 o'clock when the fishing schooner Weewina drew up at "Hodgkins", wharf with two dying men who had been injured in the fight.

The victims were the captain and cook of the rum-runner. Each was too seriously wounded to talk. Chief John E. Sullivan of the Rockport police notified the Gloucester police, and the Gloucester ambulance, with several physicians, raced to Rockport in an effort to save the lives of the wounded men. They were taken to the Addison Gilbert hospital, Gloucester.

The pirates escaped in their speed boat, carrying with them their wounded and a large sum of money, stolen from the rum runner's crew. Capt. Arthur Moore was captain of the rum-runner. It is believed that the schooner is the J. Scott Hankinson, of British registry.

Distress Signal Flown

Shortly before 9 last night Capt. Russell C. Young, of the Weewina, of Gloucester, was fishing with his crew of six men about 17 miles off shore. In the dusk one of the crew noticed the three-masted lying at anchor.

No particular attention was paid as it was known that a rum-runner was somewhere in the vicinity. Soon, however, one of the crew, watching more attentively than the rest, noticed that the vessel was flying the British flag, with the union down—the universal distress signal. Capt. Young got under way with all possible speed and made for the three-masted.

When the Weewina ran alongside four frightened men leaped over the railing of the larger craft and shouted incoherently a tale of piracy and fighting. Capt. Young went aboard. He was directed to the cabin, where he found the captain and the cook of the rum-runner desperately wounded.

The captain had three bullets in his stomach, one in one leg and one in one arm. The cook had three bullets in his stomach. Without pausing to learn anything further—not even the name of the rum-runner—Capt. Young ordered the wounded men swung overboard in a hammock.

Four Left on Board

They were made comfortable on the Weewina. Capt. Young impressed on the rude first aid work of the rum-runner's crew, and started the hours run to port on the Weewina, which he under power. The four members of the schooner's crew were left aboard.

On the way back Capt. Young picked up snatches of the story as his crew had gathered them from the crew of the rum-runner. It developed that the rum-runner was lying peacefully at anchor some time before 9 o'clock, when a long low speed boat slid out of the dusk toward the schooner.

The rum-runner's captain hailed the stranger, not knowing whether or not the craft was carrying boot-leggers. The cook was beside him at the rail. His answer was a volley. With rifles and pistols the crew of the pirate craft opened up on the rum-runner.

The captain and cook fell to the deck, drawing their pistols as they fell. They returned the fire, wounded as they were.

The crew of the rum-runner, which had been drilled for repelling pirates just as the crew of a battleship is drilled, fell to their stations and returned the fire of the pirates. The captain became unconscious, however, and the rum-runner's crew was leaderless.

Pirates Win Fight

The crew of the rum-runner was also outnumbered. After a time, with two of their number shot down, the British sailors gave in. The pirates boarded the schooner, searched the four members of the crew who were injured and took a large roll of bills from the captain. The pirates then lifted the ship's safe. Capt. Young was unable to learn whether the pirates took anything.

Warning the schooner's crew of the consequences that would follow if they attempted to call for help, the pirates returned to their craft, which had been held alongside by some of their number, and slid out into the darkness, showing no lights. Members of the schooner's crew said that they saw several pirates lying in the bottom of the boat, bandaged victims of the schooner's volleys.

The captain and cook were taken to the schooner's cabin and first aid applied. After a short time the vessel's flag was lowered and then raised, upside down, as a signal of distress.

Members of the Weewina's crew did not learn whether the pirates

Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill.—"I am willing to write to any and all women who are suffering from the troubles I had before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My back aches, my head aches, so I could not go about my household, and I had other troubles from weakness. I was this way for years, then my sister-in-law took the Vegetable Compound and recovered. It is some time I have been taking it, and it has done wonders for me. I can now do all the work I wish to do."—Mrs. Helen Brown, 2714 North Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Women suffering from female troubles causing backaches, irregularities, pains, bearing-down feelings and weakness should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Not only is the worth of this splendid medicine shown by such cases as this, but for nearly fifty years this same sort of experience has been reported by thousands of women.

Write to my girl or woman, asking for such troubles, and answer any questions they may like to ask.

WHY the Thor leads the field

Madam---Do you not consider it worthy of note that there are more THORS in use in Lowell than all other types of Electric Washing Machines combined?

To prove that this situation is not accidental you have only to refer to other discriminating communities throughout the country, where the same condition of affairs is reflected.

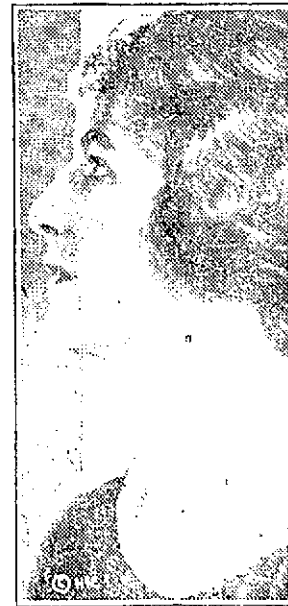

The reasons to anyone who has seen the THOR in use are perfectly obvious. It washes quicker, cleaner and without the slightest danger of wear. It employs a modification of the method which commercial laundries have proven to be the best through years of experience and which is endorsed by the Good Housekeeping and other kindred institutes. Finally, it is absolutely guaranteed by both the manufacturer and this company.

SHAW WANTS A MILLION

George Bernard Shaw, the Irish art critic, dramatist and cynic, offers to write a story of the Dempsey-Pirpo fight for a million dollars, and enough to pay the income tax on the million, which might mean half a million more. Hitherto Shaw has resisted all appeals to come here to lecture because he is not the kind of man who cares to meet humanity in the mass or to be entertained at public banquets and exploited in the newspapers.

Now, however, he has agreed to cover the fight on the conditions named: but whether anybody will pay him that amount for a story that from the news standpoint wouldn't be half as good as that written by the average sporting writer attached to any of the big papers, remains to be seen. He is a very original and popular character and as a critic, little short of a genius. In other respects he is a coarse, gruff and cynical bourgeois who delights in saying harsh things where politeness would dictate a different policy.

Shaw is a most prolific writer for a man whose formal education closed with his fifteenth year. Born in 1856, he spent ten years after leaving school in a knockabout life and it was during this period that he was converted to socialism which may be said to be his religion, although it would abolish all religion. He worked for a number of years as reporter, musical and dramatic critic for London newspapers and afterwards started to write novels and plays, turning out a large number of volumes in each of which there was more or less literary merit; but his works were characterized mainly by destructive criticism of society and its institutions and always with a trenchant pen in a powerful and brilliant style. With his present standing as an author and art critic, anything he writes will be read with avidity by the literary lights of the world.

THE COAL QUESTION

As a result of the negotiations between the United States coal commission and the parties to the controversy in the anthracite coal regions, the prospect of a settlement is daily becoming brighter in spite of the present hitch on the wage question.

Apparently the operators and miners are both showing a greater disposition to listen to reason and to make rational concessions that may result in a final agreement and thus avert a strike.

The miners on their part have abandoned the demand for the check-off system, although insisting upon some other points which to the operators are equally objectionable.

For the present, President Coolidge is not letting the public in upon his plans for dealing with the situation in case the strike occurs; but the people of New England who wait anxiously for the coal situation, cannot help but wonder what will be the result of the negotiations.

How he will do this, whether by seizing the mines or in some other way, is not known and will not be known unless the present negotiations fail.

People hereabouts feel that the president has his mind made up on what he will do in case a strike occurs and he will give a demonstration of activity that may surprise both operators and miners and that will please the people especially those who would suffer from a coal famine should that occur. It would be most regrettable if after making progress towards a final settlement, the parties to the controversy should finally break up their conference without reaching a settlement under which the mines will continue to work and feel contented in having secured reasonable concessions.

The occupation of coal mines is one attendant with every strike and much irregularity. The miners should be well paid and they should have a guarantee of regular work that would enable them to earn enough to support themselves and families in reasonable comfort. The coal commission in making for a settlement is anxious to see the miners of the anthracite region, but he is not disposed to allow the miners to assume arbitrary powers by which they could suspend the mining of coal and thus cause a scarcity of fuel that would result in coal famine and suffering the people throughout the country.

DESTROYING OUR FORESTS

When it comes to squandering natural resources, the most common leak is in the form of burning forests. Neglected portions of such forests, can be replaced only by commercial foresters. But how many years will it take to grow a new forest?

In the use of wood, we Americans are appreciably behind the Europeans. The New York State Game Commission, for example, has been the best of the timber states in the use of wood. It has a forest of 1,000,000 acres, and it has a forest of 1,000,000 acres, and it has a forest of 1,000,000 acres.

Between 1917 and 1921 our population increased by 1,000,000. Our forests, however, have decreased by 1,000,000. This is a very serious situation. It is a very serious situation. It is a very serious situation.

Some of them win, but most of them lose, and wearily beat it back.

Shabby and broke, to the home-kept folk, who look at these "tramps" askance.

But as soon as the rovers get a stake they're off on another track.

Slaves of glamour that draws them on, and lures them for these not at all.

Though their fortune may wait at home, they care for these not at all.

For they are found in a night's sleep and hold in a greater thrall.

And ever they struggle further on to the light of a distant star!

Gamblers, rovers, adventurers all who dream it is wealth they seek.

Though it is only the wanderer's trail that drives them on their way.

For it, by chance, their well come in, or they strike a paying streak.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem

The Advance Guard

They trot and fume at the humdrum round of sleep and food and toil.
They loaf and shirk at routine work which hasn't a hope of gold.
But given the lure of a gambler's chance, when copper or gold or oil
Out at the edge of a new frontier where life is raw and strange,
They'll waver the last red cent they own, they'll wager their strength and health.
On finding gold at the rainbow's end, or oil in the desert's heart.
They'll sweat and starve and toll like devils for a will-o'-the-wisp of wealth
Which dances ever before their eyes to lead them over the chart!

Some of them win, but most of them lose, and wearily beat it back.
Shabby and broke, to the home-kept folk, who look at these "tramps" askance.

But as soon as the rovers get a stake they're off on another track.
Slaves of glamour that draws them on, and lures them for these not at all.

Though their fortune may wait at home, they care for these not at all.

ERNE JOHNSON

By HILLY EVANS

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Fate played a leading role in the career of many baseball stars.

Fate seems to have decided that Walter Johnson, greatest pitcher of all time, is never to play on a team again.

Johnson has spent his entire baseball career with the Washington Senators. During the last year part of the time he has been a second division pitcher.

It has been Johnson's bad luck to have lost his job with a consistent pitcher. The condition of his arm to pitch in a world series, probably never will be realized.

While he has been on some of the noblest athletes, it smiles most kindly on others. Take the case of Ernie Johnson of the New York Yankees, for instance.

White Sox Ask Walters

Johnson began the season with the Chicago White Sox. Salary differences delayed his spring training. Lack of condition got him away to a bad start. To end the slump, the White Sox asked for Walters on Johnson.

Now for the first time in his career, the New York Yankees lack a great pitcher. But that does not mean that the Yankees escape an understudy. The Yankees decided to sign Walter Johnson.

Johnson's return to the Yankees would be a very handy man to have around. Enter Johnson in a decidedly new role.

Always a good fielder, it was the fact that he would be able to fill the gap at shortstop if Scott returned that made the Yankees' decision to sign Johnson.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 7

Jack, at first, was very much excited over the thrill of a dog fight. And then as Flip and the ship dog lunged at each other right before his eyes, the little adventurer realized that one of the dogs was likely to be badly injured or, in fact, maybe both of them.

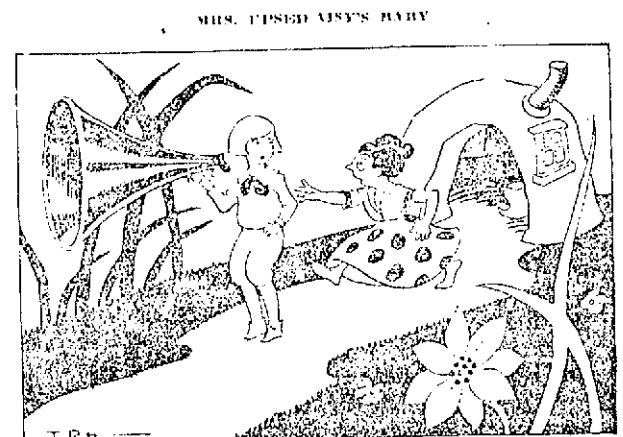

Jack therefore wanted no longer, but jumped into the middle of the ring of sailor pirates and seized Flip by the neck. Shouts of anger arose. "Let the hounds fight," shouted several pirates. "Get out of the way, boy," came the cry from some of the others.

And at that moment, Jack's friend, the cook, dashed forward and grabbed the other dog by the hair of his neck. "The lad is right," wailed the cook. "What kind of men are we to stand by and watch two dogs claw each other?" Then he told Jack to take Flip away. (Continued.)

"MY BABY HAS DISAPPEARED OUT OF HIS CRIB"

"Please go out and count noses," said King Shookums to Nick. "Go out and count all the Pee Wees and see if they are here, will you?" So out went Nick with a big grin. "Foot, toady, toady!" he blew. "Are all the noses here? Well, everyone please to count his nose and tell me if anybody is missing?" Suddenly Mrs. Upsedaisy rushed out and grabbed him. "My baby has disappeared out of his crib," she screamed. "And I can't count his nose because it went with him. My darling baby Upsedaisy! He's disappeared! Oh, what'll I do?" And the little Pee Wee baby, whom her hands were counting, said: "What did he look like?" asked Nick, stopping his toady routine and taking out his book and pencil. "I'll have to take his description, go, we can look for him." "Pink nose," said Mrs. Upsedaisy quickly.

OPERATORS AND MINERS AT ODDS

Second Day of Renewed Wage Negotiations Finds Conferees Far Apart

Widely Separated in Their Ideas of Proper Mine Pay Rates

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 21.—Today, the second of renewed wage contract negotiations in the anthracite industry, found mine operators and miners' union officials widely separated in their ideas of proper mine pay rates. The subject opened at the first meeting yesterday, was scheduled to be taken up again today, but meeting for discussion today while the two other demands of the union upon the mine owners were temporarily set aside.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, emphasized the $2 increase, demanded for day men as especially justified in view of recent increases for coal miners, building trades and textile hands. St. D. Warrington, one of the operators' policy committee, responded that the anthracite mines were fixed in 1922, had not been increased since, and had been decreased generally elsewhere. By the United States coal commission.

"The miners' union spokesman further said that bituminous miners got more money while operators countered with the proposition that the anthracite miners were regular and practically constant employment."

Pending demands of the union for a 25 per cent increase in piece rates per ton for mining coal which affects miners other than the day men were up for fuller consideration today.

The operators group, feeling that the increased wages would add $2 per ton to the price of prepared coal, and to the consumer, took the general position that the additional charges could be borne by the industry or the public.

No estimate of the value of the loot was available early today. Posses directed by the sheriff of Osage county, were securing the county around Okesa in search of the bandits who fled in motor cars. MRS. MALLORY DEFEATS MISS ELEANOR GOSS

CASINO COURTS, Newport, R. I., August 21.—Mrs. Mollie Bjurstedt Mallory defeated Miss Eleanor Goss 11-9, 6-8 in the first match of the women's tennis matches today, which brought ranking American women together. Mrs. E. C. Clayton won from Mrs. R. C. Russell, 6-1, 6-2 in the second match, the two members of the English team meeting as a result of their victories yesterday.

It was the luck of the draw that caused the international aspect of the match to fade. Tournament officials said that if the draw were changed to bring American against English, the tournament would not count in the ranking at the end of the season. American, by winning the doubles match today, may overcome England's lead of 3-2 in matches.

WRIGLEY IS TREASURER

To Handle Funds to Be Raised By Newsboys for Statuette of Laddie Boy

BOSTON, Aug. 21.—William Wrigley, Jr., the Chicago manufacturer, today accepted the trusteeship of the fund to be raised by newsboys throughout the country by the contribution of one cent each the pennies to be melted down and made into a statuette of Laddie Boy, the White House dog, which was presented to Mrs. Harding last year.

Mr. Wrigley is anxious to help in any way possible the Roosevelt Newsboys' association of this city, sponsor of the movement, and is willing to act as trustee and provide that means that Laddie Boy accept the shipment of equipment and take care of them until they are sold.

Mr. Wrigley once was a newsboy and was close friend of the President.

An effort will be made to give every newsboy an opportunity to contribute through an appeal to be sent to the publishers and circulation managers. Laddie Boy is now owned by Harry Barker, a newsboy, who recently transferred from W. Johnston to New England, and the dog will arrive soon at Barker's home in Newton.

Fate Holds Walter Johnson Down But Sends Ernie Right Up

ERNE JOHNSON

By BILLY EVANS
NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Fate plays a leading role in the career of many baseball stars.
Fate seems to have decreed that Walter Johnson, greatest pitcher of all time, be never to play on a pennant winner.
Johnson has spent his entire, big league career with the Washington club. During the greater part of the time it has been a second class organization.
It has been Johnson's bad luck to have had his best years with a second class team. The ambition of his life, to pitch in a world series, probably never will be realized.
While fate, however, on some of the noble athletes, it smites most kindly on others. Take the case of Ernie Johnson of the New York Yankees, for instance.
White Sox Ask Waivers
Johnson began the season with the Chicago White Sox. Salary differences delayed his spring training. Lack of confidence got him away to a bad start. To cap the climax, the White Sox asked for waivers for Johnson.
Now for the big break in his career. The New York Yankees looked for a substitute pitcher. They found that Everett Scott, who had been in the White Sox rotation, had been secured by the Yankees. The Yankees decided to claim Johnson, feeling that the veteran shortstop would be a very handy man to have around.
Enter Johnson in a decidedly new role.
Always a good fielder, it was figured that he would be able to fill the gap at shortstop if Scott faltered. Just a fair hitter, the Yankees management didn't look too strongly on Johnson's hitting prowess.
Shape joining the Yankees, Johnson had had little chance to show his fielding, because Scott was capable of doing or better. It is at last that Johnson has started.
When speaking of pinch hitters, experienced fans don't forget Ernie Johnson. In that most difficult department of the game he has been the outstanding figure of the season.
Johnson's debut in New York was most auspicious. Sent in as a pinch hitter, he drove the first ball pitched into the right field bleachers for a home run.
Since that time, in 13 trips to the plate, Johnson has hit safely 11 times. In that collection of hits are numerous singles, doubles, triples and a home run.

MANDELL WINS FROM BROWN ON FOUL

NASHUA, N. H., August 21.—Joe Mandell of Philadelphia, won on a foul from Newport Johnny Brown in the fifth round of the scheduled 10-round main bout of the open-air show conducted by the Nashua Drive club last night.
Brown was warned for hitting low in the first round and in the fourth round Mandell claimed a foul which the referee disallowed and the fight was continued after a two-minute rest. Mandell was dropped to his knees in the fifth with a blow which was declared to be low and the fight was awarded to the Philadelphia man.
Ray Morier of Danvers, defeated Tommy Claxton of South Boston in the eight-round semifinal and Mickey Nylon of Forge Village, knocked out K. O. Leachin in the third round of a preliminary. The curtain raiser, between Young Villa of Nashua and Joe Armstrong of Lowell, was won by the local boy in the first round.

Pinch Hitter Best Tyger
The most recent noteworthy feat in the pinch hitting line was staged August 11 at the Yankee Stadium against the Detroit Tigers.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 7

Jack, at first, was very much excited over the thrill of a dog fight. And then as Flip and the ship dog lanced at each other right before his eyes, the little adventurer realized that one of the dogs was likely to be badly injured or, in fact, maybe both of them.

Jack therefore waited no longer, but jumped into the middle of the ring of sailor pirates and seized Flip by the neck. Shouts of anger arose. "Let the hounds fight," shouted several pirates. "Get out of the way, boy," came the cry from some of the others.

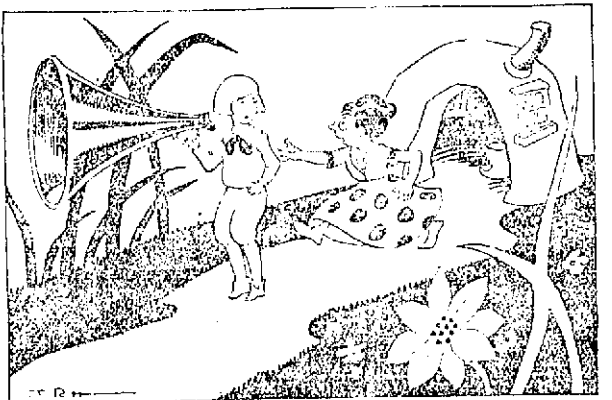

And at that moment, Jack's friend, the cook, dashed forward and grabbed the other dog by the hair of his neck. "The lad is right," wailed the cook. "What kind of men are we to stand by and watch two dogs claw each other?" Then he told Jack to take Flip away. (Continued.)

MY BABY HAS DISAPPEARED OUT OF HIS CRIB

"Please go out and count noses," said King Snookums to Nick. "Go out and count all the Pee Wees and see if they are here, will you?" So out went Nick with a big grin. "Too, too, too," he blew. "Are all the noses here? Well, everyone please to count his nose and tell me if anybody is missing?" Suddenly, Mrs. Upsteadley rushed out and grabbed him. "My baby has disappeared out of his crib," she shrieked. "And I can't count any nose because it went with him. My darling Pee Wee Upsteadley! He's gone! Kidnaped! Oh, what'll I do?" And the little Pee Wee lady wrings her hands something awful. "What'll he look like?" asked Nick, stopping his foot tapping and taking out his book and lead pencil. "Oh, have to take his description so we can look for him." "Pink nose," said Mrs. Upsteadley quickly.
